Dear owner of SSH stock options,

Please find below instructions for exercising your SSH stock options to buy SSH shares.

1. Paying the share subscription price

According to the rules defined for the stock option rights, the subscription price for the shares needs to be paid before making the subscription. Pay the subscription price to the given bank account of SSH Communications Security Corporation. You can calculate the total sum payable on your new shares by multiplying the exercise price defined for your stock options by the number of shares you are subscribing.

Please pay the subscription price to SSH Communications Security Corporation's bank account:

Bank: Sampo Bank Plc
IBAN FI83 8000 1878 9848 15 (SWIFT-BIC DABAFIHH)
Reference: "your name – payment of exercised options".

Please have a printed receipt of your payment, because we will verify your payments when you come in to sign the application for book-entry registration.

2. Application to register the shares to the book-entry securities system

After receiving your payment, SSH Communications Security Corporation will provide you with a prefilled registration application for your signature. The registration application includes information on your stock options required for carrying out the share subscription. It will act as the share subscription list required by the Finnish Companies Act, and as a document fulfilling the practical requirements of the book-entry securities system. This document is needed to exercise your stock options to buy the Tectia shares.

In your presence, we will add the number of your book-entry account and other relevant information into the registration application.

Please make sure that those stock option rights you want to exercise to purchase the shares now are registered on this particular book-entry account.
In case you want to have the purchased shares registered to another book-entry account (different than where your stock options are), please notify us when signing the registration application.

Please note that we will also need information on your nationality and country of taxation for company tax information.

3. Subscription of shares and the required documents

Once you have paid your options to the given SSH Communications Security Corporation bank account, please contact Laura Grönberg (laura.gronberg@ssh.com) to settle a date for a meeting to fill in and sign the application for share registration.

Bring the following documents:

- A receipt or other proof of your subscription payment
-ID (for example your passport)
-In case the subscription is carried out by an entity other than a private person, prepare to prove your rights to sign for the entity (for example, an extract from the trade register) and written power of attorney (if needed).
- Statement of your book-entry account showing the current situation of stock options to be exercised. (We will verify this in order to avoid mistakes).

4. Actions after the share subscription

Once you have signed the share registration application, no more actions are required from you to exercise your option rights.

SSH Communications Security Corporation will forward the share registration application to your account manager. They will exchange your stock options temporarily to a technical share type that will automatically get changed into SSH Communications Security shares (SSH1V) later.

The Board of Directors of SSH Communications Security will then approve your share subscription; the subscriptions are usually handled twice a year. After the approval from the Board, SSH Communications Security Corporation will register the increase in the share capital in the Trade Register and will apply that the new shares be made available for public trading at Nasdaq OMX Helsinki on the main list.

Please note that depending on the timing of your share subscription in relation to the SSH Communications Security Board meetings, and depending on the handling time at the Trade Registrar, it may take weeks before the shares will be available for public trading. You will find information on the beginning of trading for example in SSH Communications Security's stock exchange releases.

Thank you for the interest you have shown to our company and SSH Communications Security shares.

Best Regards,

SSH Communications Security Corporation
